

Sources on the Peterloo Massacre 1819

This fact sheet was created to coincide with the conference Peterloo 1819-2019, Peoples' History Museum, Manchester, 18 May 2019. It is not an exhaustive survey of resources for the history but an overview of key collections held at institutions that are members of SSLH ARC. Researchers should also check the National Archive's Discovery network <https://discovery.nationalarchives.gov.uk/>

Marx Memorial Library

The Marx Memorial Library & Workers' School was founded in 1933 in response to the rise of fascism in Europe. Its aim today remains the advance of education, knowledge and understanding of all aspects of Marxism and the history of socialism and working-class struggle. At the heart of the British labour movement for over 80 years, the Library is home to a unique collection of published and archival sources on related subjects, including the Spanish Civil War, trade unionism and peace and solidarity campaigns. The Library's education programme – online and on-site – covers subjects ranging from political and economic theory to socialist art.

The Marx Memorial Library holds the following contemporary documents on the Peterloo Massacre:

- An Impartial Narrative of the Late Melancholy Occurrences in Manchester. Printed and Published by Henry Fisher (1819)
- Report of the Metropolitan and Central Committee appointed for the Relief of the Manchester Sufferers with An Appendix containing the names of the Sufferers and the Nature and Extent of their Injuries. Also, an Account of the Distribution of the Funds and other Documents published by order of the Committee (1820)
- Sherwin's Weekly Political Register Vol V No. 16 21 August 1819 on 'Horrid Massacre at Manchester'.

We also hold three contemporary ceramics celebrating Henry Hunt and commemorating the Martyrs. These, too, form part of our James Klugman Collection and are searchable through our online catalogue here <https://marx.soutron.net/Portal/Default/en-GB/Search/SimpleSearch>

The MML is open Monday-Thursday 12-4pm.

The Working Class Movement Library

The Working Class Movement Library is a national collection of the history of British and Irish radical and labour movements from the late 18th century up to the present day. It includes books, pamphlets, leaflets, banners, pottery, prints, photographs, personal papers, posters, videos, trade union records and much else that documents and illuminates the story of working class struggles for social justice, democracy and equality. The Library is open to everyone to visit by appointment between 10am and 5pm Tuesday to Friday, and the catalogue is available online at www.wcml.org.uk/catalogue - although not all material has yet been catalogued, this is often a useful first port of call.

Peterloo resources include:

Map that once belonged to William Hulton, the magistrate who ordered that the crowd be dispersed and Henry Hunt arrested. - And, last but not least, a first edition of Shelley's Masque of Anarchy, published by Edward Moxon in 1832.

The John Rylands Library, Manchester

The John Rylands Library has a significant collection of Peterloo resources, the vast majority of which have been digitised and are available online. The key collections are the Stamford Papers and the Wadsworth Papers, the latter comprises material gathered by Rev. William Hay including handbills, placards and correspondence. A complete run of the newspaper The Manchester Observer, a key resource for anyone studying Peterloo, is also held at the Library and can be accessed online. Other key sources include the printed 'Manchester Sufferers' book (Ref. R233016) and a manuscript book, 'The Peterloo Relief Fund Account Book' (Ref. Eng MS 172), both of which carefully list the names, ages, gender, livelihoods and addresses of the victims and the amount of money they received in compensation.

All these resources can be accessed at www.manchester.ac.uk/rylands/peterloo. You can also search their special collections blog for series of articles on Peterloo <http://rylandscollections.wordpress.com/>

The Reading Room is open 6 days a week 10-5 with a late night till 7 on Thursdays. To find out more see <https://www.library.manchester.ac.uk/special-collections/access-the-special-collections/>
